CIVILITY.

Don't try to bully the world. It does not pay. Whoever enters the ring for rough and tumble fight with Public Opinion is pretty sure, eventually to be "doubled up." Society is a Briareus, and who but a madman would think of encountering with a single pair of fists, a hundred-armed fellow! Better shake the multitudinous hands of the giant good-naturedly, than unnecessarily provoke his wrath. Despite the world if it so please you—though to do so is a proof of arrogance conceit and egotism—but, as you have to live in the world, to lean on the world, it is just as well to treat it civilly. Shrewd men, who understand their race, never seek a quarrel with Society. They understand that it is possible for an individual to persuade, lead and quietly control a community, but not to fight it down. If you desire to reform social evils or to disabuse your fellow-men of their prejudice, the surest way not to succeed is to resort to denunciation and abuse. Kindness, conciliation, the influence of good example—these are the true and effective means and appliances of reform.

GIVE HOME THE PREFERENCE.

In all our dealings whether large or small, we should always give home the preference. There are people who either form habit or error in judgment, make a business of going away from home to do their trading. Likewise skilled labor that they may have to do; and in the latter case they frequently employ those whose knowledge of the trade or profession is very inferior to that obtainable at home, and in many instances pay total strangers for poor workmanship more than home talent would ask for guaranteed work. And while we would not entail the liberty of any one in this connection, we would suggest that they consult their own interest, at least those of a mercenary character, and especially where by so doing they can favor a neighbor or a friend. We can well afford to pay a little more for things we have to sell when we know that the money involved in our home transactions (or, at least, a portion of it) will remain in our midst and doubtless contribute something to our neighbor's welfare, and possibly return to swell our own pocketbooks.

In many of our schools nowadays there is too much cramming. Minds crammed with matter and not having the remotest idea as to its value or use. Page after page is gone over and learned "by heart." Books gone through and laid aside. Scholars tired and worn out and yet how little do they really know. The most simple, practical things of life they cannot solve: are made blanks and total failures. Minds stuffed and crammed and yet can apply it to nothing. More teaching—causing to know—is what is wanted, and less cramming, and there will be less worry, less fatigue, less friction and more light hearts, brilliant minds and success in life.

Chamberlain's Cough remedy has become famous for its cures of coughs, colds, croup and influenza. Try it when in need. It contains no harmful substance and always gives prompt relief.

Eastern Editor

Amazed.

The extraordinary energy and resourcefulness exhibited by San Francisco in its great fight for congressional recognition of its claims to be officially designated as the site for the Panama-Pacific exposition is regarded by the Cleveland Plain Dealer with amazement and admiration.

The fact that San Francisco has planned to raise $17,500,000 for the exposition makes the editor gasp in astonishment and while he commends the spirit he doubts the wisdom of the risk. The doubt however has been shared by others and quickly disappears when the immeasurable resources of California and the comprehensiveness of the plans for the exposition are thoroughly understood.

Commenting on the fight for the exposition the Plain Dealer says:

"When a man mortgages his home or his business to buy an automobile for pleasure, thinking people comment on his lack of judgment. What, then, should be said of a state which mortgages the future to build an exposition?"

"That is virtually what California has decided to do. The assembly has authorized two amendments to the state constitution, one permitting the raising of $5,000,000 by special taxation to cover a term of years and the other permitting San Francisco to raise the same amount by special bond issue. The citizens of San Francisco have already subscribed $7,500,000 to secure the exposition. So the city's bid for the coveted event in 1915 reaches the commanding total of $17,500,000.

"New Orleans, the other aspirant for the Panama exposition, may here read what she must do to win the favor of congress. For the national legislature at the last session postponed its decision on the location of the canal celebration until it could learn which of the two leading cities would offer the more substantial inducement. It would seem doubtful whether the Louisiana city can do as well as the opulent Pacific coast has done.

Maxims To Remember.

Every town's success depends upon the success of its people.

Extravagance in school expenditures is a commendable virtue.

Labor should be dignified, intelligent and above all, well fed.

Driven to the wall of health, the poor often accept vice as an alternative.

Cultivate a patriotic spirit in the young. Let the stars and stripes and if need be, the notes of the tin horn float on every breeze.

The enterprise of a town may be accurately gauged by the appearance of its parks.

Whatever advantages a village or city may possess, the citizens should co-operate with the existing forces to stimulate what otherwise must prove a slower, even though inevitable, growth.

Cast about whatever you will and discover that within a comparatively limited area that is an incalculable wealth of earth's treasures, the transactions in which even for a day are beyond measure.

It is in time of sudden misadventure or accident that Chamberlain's Liniment can be relied upon to take the place of the family doctor, who cannot always be found at the moment. Then it is that Chamberlain's Liniment is never found wanting. In cases of sprains, cuts, wounds and bruises Chamberlain's Liniment takes out the soreness and drives away the pain.

Notice to Water Users.

State Engineer's Office, Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 26, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that Terry Brothers, whose post office address is Enterprise, Utah, have made application in accordance with the requirements of the Compiled Laws of Utah, 1907, as amended by the Session Laws of Utah, 1909, to appropriate one-tenth (.1) of a cubic foot per second of water from Upper Nephi Spring, Iron County, Utah. Said spring is situated at a point which bears north 31 degrees 36 minutes west 10,868 feet from the southeast corner of Township 36 south, Range 19 west, Salt Lake base and meridian. It is the intention of the applicants to construct a small dam across the wash near the spring, where the water will be used during the period from October 15, of each year, to July 1, inclusive, of the year following, for stock watering purposes. This application is designated in the State Engineer's office as No. 3207.

All protests against the granting of said application, stating the reasons therefor, must be made by affidavit in duplicate and filed in this office within thirty (30) days after the completion of the publication of this notice.

The Record had a pleasant call from H. T. Haines state statistician, Thursday morning. Mr. Haines was at one time editor of the Emery County Progress, and always makes it a point to visit the newspaper office whenever he lands in a town containing one. He is down here on business connected with his office and is accompanied by Col. E. W. Tatlock, Federal Field Statistician of Agriculture. The gentlemen left yesterday for St. George where they will spend a day or two, returning to Salt Lake after again visiting this city.

Hoarseness in a child subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given at once or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Contains no poison.
